

Christopher B. Seaman

Christopher B. Seaman is a Visiting Assistant Professor at Chicago-Kent College of Law, where he teaches Intellectual Property Litigation, IP and Antitrust, and Legal Writing. His most recent paper, "Willful Patent Infringement and Enhanced Damages After In re Seagate: An Empirical Study," was a winner of the inaugural Samsung-Stanford Patent Prize Competition and will be published in the Iowa Law Review.

Before joining Chicago-Kent, Chris was an attorney in the intellectual property litigation practice group at Sidley Austin LLP from 2005-2009, where he represented numerous clients in patent, copyright, trademark, and trade secret litigation. He is a 2004 graduate of the University of Pennsylvania Law School, where he was an Executive Editor of the University of Pennsylvania Law Review, and a 2000 graduate of Swarthmore College. He also was a law clerk for the Honorable R. Barclay Surrick of the U.S. District Court for Eastern District of Pennsylvania from 2004-2005.